Abstract

Most difficult and important component of report/project is to write abstract. Presented at the beginning of the report, it is likely the first substantive description of your work read by an external examiner/reader. You should view it as an opportunity to set accurate expectations. The abstract is a summary of the whole project work.

It presents all the major elements of your work in a highly condensed form. An abstract often functions, together with the project title, as a stand-alone text. An abstract is not merely an introduction in the sense of a preface, preamble, or advance organizer that prepares the reader for the report.

In addition to that function, it must be capable of substituting for the whole report when there is insufficient time and space for the full text. The final version of the abstract will need to be written after you have finished reading your report for the last time. However, if you think about what it has to contain, you realize that the abstract is really a summary of your project/project work.

Your abstract should answer specific questions: What was done? Why was it done? How was it done? What was found? What is the significance of the findings?

CHAPTER 1

INTRODUCTION TO Project

- Introduction to Project

Students are expected to write brief introduction of the Project topic. This section may be common for all the students of that group. However students can have different approach in explaining their project.

- Importance and relevance

This section highlights the significance of the chosen topic and its relevance in the present scenario.

- Problem statement

Students explains what specific issue or challenge the topic addresses — basically why this topic is important and what problem it tries to solve.

1.4 Organization of the report

CHAPTER 2

LITERATURE SURVEY OF Project Topic

Students are expected to write similar or related work already done by various researchers. They could also explain existing tools/technologies in this section. There advantages and disadvantages of each method or technique. They should also explain how their project is different from those existing systems. You need to read lot of books/ papers/ magazines for making this survey.

CHAPTER 3

Motivation, Purpose, Scope and Objectives

3.1 Motivation behind project topic

Students are expected to write “Why they thought about this project”. They could also explain the “Explain need of the project”. Any statement which motivated to take up this project

3.2 Purpose of study

explains why the student chose the topic and what they hope to achieve or learn from it.
The purpose of this study is to understand the fundamental concepts of [topic name], its working principles,and its applications in real-world scenarios.

3.3 Scope and limitations

3.4 Aim and Objective(s) of the work

Project aims are a statement of the overall “Why” of the project. A semina aim is a statement starting with the words: “The aim of this seminat is…”
That statement tells the reader what your overall goal is, what it is you want to achieve. It does not go into details or describe specific tasks.

project objectives tell the “How” of the project aim. You want to achieve your goal and the objectives state how this will be done – what major tasks will be undertaken and what your major targets are.

Guide must personnel check these aim and objectives and make students write these statements properly.

CHAPTER 4

PROJECT RELATED OTHER CHAPTER

All other details of project topic chapter-wise if necessary including methodology/algorithms, advantages and disadvantages, applications, enhancements could be added.

CHAPTER 5

Description of the method, process, or Technology

CHAPTER 6

CONCLUSION

Conclusions usually serve two functions. The first is to summarize and bring together the main areas covered in the writing, which might be called "looking back“ . The second is to give a final comment of your project.

For example your could say this project is undertaken to explain..... and evaluate ..... . This study has found that generally ..... . Or In this project we ……..
